

Media Studies

Media Studies is an interdisciplinary field that explores the relationship between media and society. It examines the production, distribution, and reception of various forms of media, including film, television, radio, and digital media. The field also investigates the cultural, political, and economic contexts in which media operates.

Students in the Media Studies program will gain a deep understanding of the role of media in contemporary society. They will learn to analyze media texts and to critically evaluate the impact of media on culture and politics. The program also provides opportunities for students to engage in creative projects and to develop practical skills in media production.

Media Studies courses are designed to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the field. The program includes a variety of courses that cover both theoretical and practical aspects of media studies.

The Media Studies program is a dynamic and evolving field. As new technologies and media forms emerge, the program continues to adapt and expand its offerings. Students who graduate from the Media Studies program will be well-prepared to enter a variety of careers in the media industry.

2	Media Studies 101: Introduction to Media Studies
211	Media Studies 211: Media Theory and Criticism
212	Media Studies 212: Media History and Culture
221	Media Studies 221: Media Law and Ethics
22	Media Studies 22: Media and Society
222	Media Studies 222: Media and the Environment
2 2	Media Studies 2 2: Media and the Future
2	Media Studies 2: Media and the Arts
2	Media Studies 2: Media and the Economy
21	Media Studies 21: Media and the Law
22	Media Studies 22: Media and the Environment
21	Media Studies 21: Media and the Arts
2, 2	Media Studies 2, 2: Media and the Future
0	Media Studies 0: Media and the Law
2 1	Media Studies 2 1: Media and the Environment

NOTE: Not all courses listed are offered each year. Please consult with the Program Director for more information about current and planned course offerings.